

Pacific High School

Digital Design and Communications

- The Digital Design and Communications Academy prepares students to become animators, movie or video producers, directors, actors, voice actors, graphic designers or illustrators.
- Students will use video, audio, music, graphics, animation, and web skills to create their own digital portfolio to help them be successful in college and careers.
- All pathway completers will have the opportunity to do internships and earn articulated college credit and industry certifications.
